What are cookies

Cookies are small data files placed on your device. Similar technologies include localStorage, sessionStorage, and tracking pixels. They can be first party (set by this site) or third party (set by external providers).

Legal basis

Essential cookies are necessary for the service and rely on legitimate interest. Analytics and third party embeds are used only with your prior consent. Non essential cookies are not set before consent. You can withdraw consent at any time.

Cookie categories

Essential: security and core functionality. Analytics: audience measurement and aggregated statistics. Embeds/Media: content loaded from third party platforms such as YouTube.

Your choices

You can Accept all, Reject all, or Manage preferences via the banner. You can change your choices later from the site footer link "Cookie settings". You can also block or delete cookies in your browser settings.

Cookie table (examples)

Cookie name	Provider	Purpose	First/Third party	Duration

How to manage or remove cookies in your browser

Google Chrome: Settings > Privacy and security > Cookies and other site data. To clear: Settings > Privacy and security > Clear browsing data > Cookies and other site data.

Mozilla Firefox: Settings > Privacy & Security > Cookies and Site Data. To clear: Settings > Privacy & Security > Cookies and Site Data > Clear Data.

Safari (macOS): Settings or Preferences > Privacy > Manage Website Data. Remove selected or Remove All. To block: Privacy > uncheck or adjust cookie settings.

Microsoft Edge: Settings > Privacy, search, and services > Cookies and site permissions. To clear: Settings > Privacy, search, and services > Clear browsing data > Choose what to clear.

Consent logging

Consent logging: store a record of the user's choices, timestamp, policy version, and the categories consented to. Optionally store a pseudonymous consent ID and user agent. Do not keep raw IP logs longer than necessary. Suggested retention for consent logs: up to 13–14 months or until consent is changed, whichever is sooner.

Updates and contact

We may update this policy when our cookies or providers change. Contact: the Data Controller listed above.
